

Guide to Requirements

The Presidential Scholar Award is one of the most prestigious scholarships granted by Abilene Christian University.

As you would expect, there are some strong expectations tied to it. This guide is written for prospects, applicants, recipients, their parents, and all university staff and administrators who have contact with them. Its purpose is to explain expectations and clarify rules.

Award recipients are bound by the terms of their acceptance letters and by the procedures and standards set forth in the latest version of this guide. Failure to meet requirements will result in forfeiture of some or all of a scholarship and possibly in other penalties. Forfeitures begin at $500 and increase with the seriousness of the offense. Some offenses result in complete and permanent loss of scholarship. Questions about penalties for noncompliance should be directed to the Presidential/National Merit Finalist Scholarship Board.

Rationale for requirements

The Presidential Scholar Awards are intended to recruit campus leaders and bring out their best influence. They seek students “who exhibit commitment to the highest standards of academic success, service, leadership and character.” The selection process is calculated to find students with the temperament, experience, intelligence and personal values to be servant leaders in a Christian campus culture.

The conditions of the award are designed to maximize their influence: they must live on campus; follow regulations; model servant leadership by completing community service hours; and show their academic drive by completing several Honors Program courses and maintaining their GPA.

Requirements for Presidential Scholar Awards

1. Maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of at least 3.5 for full-tuition Presidential awards or at least 3.2 for half-tuition Presidential awards. Your cumulative GPA must meet the minimum at the end of each semester. GPAs will not be rounded up.

If your GPA goes under the minimum and you lose your Presidential award, you can fall back to a Trustee Scholarship if your GPA permits.

2. Make due progress toward graduation in nine semesters. Presidential Scholarships pay for a maximum of 144 semester hours of ACU courses. The scholarship is limited to nine consecutive long semesters OR your graduation, whichever comes first. The scholarship may be used for summer terms (including Maymester) between the first and ninth semester.

Special note: This is a change in the terms of the scholarship and is effective January 2006 for all current and future Presidential Scholars. This change gives them the freedom to use their award for summer courses and a ninth semester.

The award can be used only for ACU courses, including ACU distance learning and Study Abroad. It cannot be used for graduate degrees, graduate courses (except those taken for undergraduate credit), courses taken after graduation, or semesters at Focus on the Family. It cannot be used for non-ACU courses either in the U.S. or abroad (such as semesters sponsored by the Council of Christian Colleges and Universities).

Exception: APCT (fast-track psychology) majors may use their awards to complete both the bachelor's and master's degrees at ACU if they do so in four years. They do forfeit the ninth semester of scholarship. If a student switches out of the APCT program or decides to take longer than four years, then the award covers graduate courses only if taken for undergraduate credit.

3. Remain in good standing according to all ACU policies and regulations, including chapel attendance. Every ACU student is responsible for adhering to the Student Guide, available at www.acu.edu/campusoffices/campuslife. Presidential Scholars must model personal and academic integrity and the wholesome lifestyle that ACU policies are intended to promote.

4. Participate in the Honors Program (HP) by completing four honors courses within your first year. Take two honors courses each semester. If you have scheduling problems, see the Honors Program office to make arrangements. After, you complete the four courses, HP participation is encouraged but not required.

- You must meet the usual curricular requirements for honors students: In the fall of your first year, one of your HP courses must be an honors section of University Seminar (unless you take a departmental section or a Learning Community that includes University Seminar). Also, your first year HP courses must include at least one Honors Core course (HCOR 221, 222, 223, 120 or 240). These cover humanities, social sciences and the arts and count toward General Education requirements in degree plans.
- Please complete an HP application as soon as you are awarded a scholarship. Honors Program applications are available online at www.acu.edu/academics/honors/application or from Admissions and the HP Office. Presidential Scholars are not required to write the Honors Application Essay.

5. Live full-time in a campus residence hall (or University Park if you are a junior or senior). This requirement applies to semesters only (not summer or Maymester or between semesters) and does not apply to Presidential Scholars who are married or who hold a Residence Life position requiring them to live elsewhere.

6. Complete 15 hours of community service each semester, documented through ACU's Volunteer and Service-Learning Center (VSLC). Students must participate in service activities promoted, organized or approved by the VSLC. Visit the VSLC to receive service opportunity information. Several procedures are important:

- Document your hours using the official blue timesheet for Presidential Scholars, which you may pick up at the Honors Program office.
- All volunteer timesheets (individual or group) must be signed by the appropriate supervisor or group leader.
- Signed timesheets must be turned in at the VSLC every semester by the Friday before final exams. The VSLC is located in the basement of McGlothlin Campus Center. When you submit yours to keep your Presidential Scholarship, you must request a photocopy stamped by the office worker. That photocopy is your receipt and is your only recourse if your hours do not show in VSLC records.

Community service hours may be any of the three types defined by the VSLC (community, ACU, church). They count toward this requirement only during a semester (not summer or Maymester or between semesters). You must have advanced approval to count service hours done “back home.”

Scholars may not count service hours that are performed for some other requirement (e.g., for coursework, a social club, an honor society or disciplinary action by Campus Life).

Exception: Hours required for an Honors Program course, Honors Program Service-Learning or an ACU Study Abroad course may count for Presidential Scholars. To double-count hours for your Presidential and for other scholarships, students must appeal to the Presidential/NMF Board.

7. Full-tuition Presidential Scholars only: Submit a new FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) every year. This is required for any full-tuition scholarship at ACU. Please do this early in the summer. Waiting until after August 1 will mean a delay in crediting your scholarship to your account, and you will pay the late fees. The FAFSA is available at the ACU Welcome Center and at www.fafsa.ed.gov.
